

ANGLESEA ABBEY and WICKEN FEN Tuesday 26th June 2018

We will be visiting Anglesey Abbey and Wicken Fen in the last week of June. We will spend the morning at Anglesey Abbey where we hope that the rose garden and the flower borders will be in full bloom. The gardens are extensive and there is also the house and the mill to view. There is a café on site and usually a stall to buy sandwiches. If we are lucky with the weather, you may choose to bring a picnic to eat in the grounds.

After lunch we visit Wicken Fen, the first nature reserve owned by the National Trust. It is now one of Europe's most important wetlands and home to more than 9000 species. We have arranged a guided walk for those who are interested, or a 50 minutes boat trip for some of the more nimble (max 24 people, first come, first served) or you can wander through the board walks at your leisure. You might wish to bring binoculars if you have them. There is a café on site.
